

Code Share Agreement with Aeroflot
Date 29 July 2015	Reference number 201507292	Implementation date 01 August 2015

As part of Saudia's plan to develop and expand its international network, it has concluded a Code Share agreement with Aeroflot (SU), to start connecting flights between KSA & Russia starting 01 August, 2015; and as the agreement states the operating carrier will be responsible for the service provided on board its flights according to each company's procedure.

OPERATING CARRIER - shall mean the airline having operational control of the aircraft used for a designated Codeshare Flight

MARKETING CARRIER - shall mean the airline, whose Code is shown in the carrier designator box of a flight coupon for a designated Codeshare Flight but which is not operating the flight

What is a codeshare?

A codeshare is the fact that one "marketing" airline is putting its code onto another "operating" airline's flight, using therefore its own marketing codes, fares and fare rules to sell this flight as its own.

Why a codeshare?

By putting its code and its own fares and fare rules on the operating airline, the marketing airline can use its dominance in its own market to sell the flights as its own, generating more traffic on both networks.

Flights' schedule:

- From RUH, Moscow (SVO) is served as a codeshare via DXB and IST, operated by SU
- From JED, Moscow (SVO) is served as a codeshare via IST and CAI, operated by SU
- From JED, St. Petersburg is served as a codeshare via IST, operated by SU

Table of Code share flights, note that time will be in local timing for both destinations of departure and arrival
